

Biographical Note

Aleksandar Marković

Aleksandar Marković

Graduate mechanical engineer, was born on November 25, 1965 in Gornji Milanovac, Serbia.

Graduated from the Faculty of Mechanical Engineering in Belgrade, at the Department of Production Engineering he started his professional career in 1993 at Metalac a.d. in the Construction and Engineering Section.

Experience, specialization, personal characteristics and ambitions resulted in constant advancement and already in 1998 he ran the project to set up production of stainless steel cookware and after that he took managing position at stainless steel cookware and stainless steel sinks profit centers. From 2005 he acted as technical and development director of the company, and since the reorganization of the Metalac into a holding company in 2006 till 2018 Marković held the position of director of the Metalac Posudje doo as the biggest affiliate within the Metalac Group.

Since 2005 he has worked as a technical director and development director of the company Metalac a.d., and with Metalac reorganization into a holding company in 2006 he became the director of Metalac Posuda d.o.o, the largest company within the Metalac Group and kept that position till 2018.

From April 2018 he has been the managing director of the Metalac a.d. company.

In addition to formal education he successfully passed a number of professional trainings in the field of strategic management, business economics, managerial accounting and management, then the General Management Program of the IEDC Bled Business School, as well as various programs of the Mokra Gora School of Management, Adizes and a number of other trainings.